News and information for the members of the Maryland Orchid Society

October 2013

October's Speaker is Paul Sheetz of JustPat Orchids

Our October speaker, Paul Sheetz, will be discussing "Zygo What? Zygopetalum and Intergeneric Hybrids" and will explore Zygopetalum species and hybrids, as well as hybrids made with Zygosepalum, Promeneia, Agonesia, Neogardneria, Mendocella, Pescatorea and many others. Paul has been growing orchids for over 30 years. He bought his first white cattleya at the Philadelphia Flower Show in 1976. Paul has been active in local orchid societies for the past 25 years and is currently Vice President of the Greater Philadelphia Orchid Society.

Paul is an accredited American Orchid Society judge and is Chairman for the Mid-Atlantic Region and is also active in show table judging for several local orchid societies.

Paul is the owner of JustPat Orchids and has been exhibiting at orchid shows for the last 25 years and had been an orchid vendor at the Philadelphia Flower Show for more than 20 years. He recently (9 years ago) moved from Philadelphia to Honey Brook, PA (45 miles west) and built a new 30' x 48' greenhouse.

Paul will be bringing plenty of plants to sell at the meeting. Check out his website at www.justpatorchids.com.

The Judges Choice of the Evening was Ctsm. Susan Fuchs 'Burgundy Chips' FCC/AOS, exhibited by Sarah Hurdel & Gary Smith. See page 3 for how they grow this beautiful plant. The judges were Ann Lundy, Clark Riley and Chris Zajac. There were an incredible 125 beautiful plants displayed on our show table.

Catasetum Susan Fuchs 'Burgundy Chips' FCC/AOS — A Lucky Find!

This plant was purchased in 2007 as a small unlabeled pot of rocks and shriveled pseudobulbs. I recognized it as some type of Catasetum, having just attended my first MOS meeting featuring a talk on this fascinating group of plants. I offered the grower $7 for the plant — which he happily accepted — who else would buy it?

I had no idea what the blooms would look like, but I hadn't seen a Catasetum or Cycnoches that I didn't like, and thought it was worth a try. In the late spring, just as the newest pseudobulb was maturing, I was rewarded with a single spike with three of these gorgeous blooms. I have experimented with many mixes, watering regimes, and fertilizers over the years, and this plant has tolerated all of these changes without skipping a beat — and now faithfully blooms twice a year.

Light — Most of my Catasetum plants spend the summer outdoors, and receive several hours of mid-late morning sun. This year I grew Ctsm. Susan Fuchs under high output T-5 lights during the summer, proving that they can be grown and bloomed indoors.

Watering — In the spring, I begin watering when the new growth has begun to put roots into the media. I have grown this plant in a dish of water during the summer, which I would highly recommend if you are unable to water regularly. I have found that they do not like to dry out between waterings until the newest pseudobulb has almost matured. Once it has matured, I gradually reduce watering, providing just enough to keep the pseudobulbs plump. Watering ceases after the leaves begin to yellow and drop.

Potting and fertilizer — I have read many times that they do not want to be over potted. However, I have found that no matter how large the pot, they quickly fill it with roots. I have used a slow release granular fertilizer with no problems, supplementing with organic fish and seaweed or humic/fulvic acid.

Dormancy - I have a number of plants from this group, and they will decide when they will go dormant. Do not withhold water if the new growth has not matured — no matter how late in the season it is. Susan Fuchs has refused to go dormant for the past two years — and even after reducing water in the fall to nothing, I find that I have to remove the leaves as a last resort. I also have a Mormodes wolterianum which takes a short rest, and new growth begins while last year's growth still retains its leaves. Cold AND wet during the winter will kill them quickly. My plants rest indoors in low humidity, and I mist the surface of the media once every few weeks or when the newest pseudobulb begins to shrivel.

They seem to prefer some light when dormant, so a dark basement is not ideal. I keep my dormant plants near the lights, but not under them — to prevent accidental watering.

Catasetum, Cycnoches, Mormodes, and Clowesia (and their hybrids) all share similar culture and growth habits — and I find them all very rewarding to grow. Of course, my favorite will always be this lucky find!

Member Update and Miscellaneous

There were 60 members at the September meeting.

The September door prize, a dor. Queen Beer 'Mantefon' was won by the Soykes. Another plant, a Laelia crispin, was won by the Adamses.

Don't Miss These Exciting MOS Speakers!

Deborah Dade has a thrilling speaker line-up planned for MOS' 2013-2014 monthly meetings. Following is a list of confirmed speakers for 2013-2014:

October 2013: Paul Sheetz, JustPat Orchids

November 2013: Cordelia Head, J&L Orchids

January 2014: Stephen Male, Fishing Creek Orchids

May 2014: Linda Thorne, Seagrove Orchids, Seagrove, NC

Maryland Orchid Society Board of Trustees Meeting

The next meeting of the MOS Board of Trustees is to be held October 24 at the home of Norma Lynch. Arrive early to enjoy a light meal and refreshments. (Please consider bringing a side dish or refreshment.) Open to all members. Please RSVP to Norma or Eric Wiles.

Committee Chairs should be ready with their committee reports and budget requests prior to the meeting. Some time-sensitive amendments to the Bylaws will also be considered.

The MOS Orchid Auction is Just a Few Weeks Away!

The huge success of last year's auction has prompted us to use the same location this year. We are hoping that everyone will support this year's auction as volunteers, bidders and with plant donations. The event is fun and educational, with beautiful and unusual orchids for bargain prices from a variety of sources!

AOS Affiliated Societies.

As a member of the American Orchid Society, you have the opportunity and ability to interact with orchid societies throughout the world. AOS recognizes that their affiliated societies are the backbone of the American Orchid Society. At the local level members can discover more detailed regional information about growing a variety of orchids. What works in Florida does not necessarily work in Canada or Australia. Affiliated societies receive a copy of Orchids magazine monthly, are listed in the Orchid Source Directory at no cost to the society and the promotion of any shows in AOS Calendar of Events. Affiliated societies have the benefit of low cost show insurance and on site AOS judging as well as the privilege of presenting the prestigious AOS Show Trophy at their AOS sanctioned shows. These are just some of the advantages of being an AOS affiliated society. More exist and they are described in more detail on the AOS website under the Affiliated Societies tab. The Affiliated Societies

Committee is always looking for suggestions from AOS members on how AOS can be more responsive and connected to its affiliated societies. If you have any ideas or suggestions, please send them along to me at affiliated_societies@aos.org. All of your ideas or suggestions will be discussed at our biannual meetings.

AOS Affiliated Societies Representative.

AOS membership for the AOS Representative -- in addition to a society membership -- is one of the basic requirements to be an AOS affiliated society. The AOS Representative is responsible for keeping the society up to date on activities of AOS. They should also be the spokesperson and ambassador for AOS at meetings and shows of the society. They should keep the AOS current on the leadership of their society, notifying headquarters of changes of meeting dates, locations, etc. as they happen. AOS Reps, and any AOS member, can attend the biannual Affiliated Societies Breakfast at the AOS Members' and Trustees' meetings. These breakfasts provide an excellent opportunity to exchange ideas among the societies.

AOS Committees. The business of AOS is conducted through committees. Some of the committees -- mainly Research, Conservation, Membership, Affiliated Societies, Education -- may be looking for some new members. Being a part of an AOS Committee can be a rewarding experience and give you the opportunity to participate more in the mission of AOS. If you have an interest in joining a committee, communicate your interest to the chair (their email address is provided in Orchids).

The MOS Newsletter, published monthly by the Maryland Orchid Society September through June, shares the latest news of our orchid community. Please submit your comments to sobelman1@verizon.net

We invite articles, notices, etc. for inclusion in our newsletter. The deadline for inclusion is first Sunday of the month.

The MOS brings together people interested in orchids to promote and encourage orchid culture, preservation, education, propagation, hybridization, and all other orchid-related activities of interest to its members. Benefits of membership include a subscription to the Newsletter (e-mail and web), voting rights, borrowing privileges from the MOS Library, monthly guest speakers, local judging, valuable door prizes, and much, much, more!

If you are interested in orchid culture and would like to meet others with similar interests, we cordially invite you to join the ranks of Marylanders already enjoying the benefits of membership in the Maryland Orchid Society.
